2012 New Southern Home to be featured in International Builders Show Custom Home Tour

Wednesday, February 8, 2012 – Winter Park, FL - Local Builder's "Green" showcase home to be featured in Custom Home tour in conjunction with the International Builders Show.

Hardwick General Contracting was selected as one of a handful of high end Home Builders in Central Florida to be featured in the 2012 International Builders Show (IBS) – Lutron Custom Home Tour this Thursday, February 9th. The sold out tour will have 4 buses of Homebuilding Professionals from all over the country and will feature Hardwick's 2012 New Southern Home in Winter Park, Florida. The private tour for IBS attendees begins at the Orange County Convention center at 8 am and will run until 1 pm.

The Builder, Hardwick General Contracting, Inc. and their invaluable team of suppliers and trade partners started construction on the 9,000 plus square foot (under roof) home in May 2011. Hardwick General Contracting, Inc. (HARDWICK GC) plans to certify the home at the Platinum level through the Florida Green Building Coalition (FGBC) Green Building Standard. The home will also be a showcase of "barrier free" living using fundamental Universal Design principles. "Our mission is to consistently balance beauty and elegance with basic conservation and sustainability principles, all while ensuring that every client is delighted with the process and final product", says Greg Hardwick, P.E., President and owner of Hardwick General Contracting, Inc. Although the home is still under construction, Greg Hardwick and his team will guide attendees through the home demonstrating energy efficient components and industry best practices.

The completed home will be showcased as the New Southern Home for the 2012 Southeast Building Conference this July.
