Rock your Agave

Try building this low maintenance container garden yourself. It will rock your world!

Looking for a low water needs container garden? Look no further. Agave are great plants for low maintenance & water conservation. They are very forgiving to those who like to take a vacation from time to time.

Follow these simple steps to build your own Agave Rock Garden.

1. Choose a container. Pick something simple like a clean lines container or even something recycled like an old cracked pot.
2. Fill container with Windmill Soil, then add your plants.
3. Choose plants such as agave or other succulents. You can incorporate other fun low water needs additions for containers or even the garden beds such as salvia, rosemary, or thyme. See below to see how sculptural plants really pop in a garden bed!
4. Top dress your planting with sand and jazz up the container with decorative rocks, glass, or other 'found' objects.
